

Dubliners (annotated)

This edition incorporates an original introduction from Moorside Press, including a biography, a critical discussion of Joyces place in the history of English Literature and a short contextual discussion of the book. First published in 1914 following nine years of repeated attempts, Dubliners was Joyces first accepted work of fiction and is composed of 15 short stories centred on distinct characters in and around Dublin. The stories have a life-cycle arc, taking in childhood, adolescence, maturity and concluding with the novella, The Dead, and in each a characters has an epiphany of sorts. Joyce claimed that the collection has a moral sense and that Dublin provided a setting that in his words was a centre of paralysis. Certainly at the time he was writing Dublin and Ireland as a whole was going through a time of deep trauma, searching for home rule yet not fully achieving it. In the background is the spectre of Charles Parnell and the effect he had on so many like Joyce and his family.
